

Rob Stewart-Television Host

Rob Stewart is a national award-winning television host, reporter and executive producer.

Rob is the Executive Producer and Host of his California television series Rob on the Road. Simply put, Rob is the California explorer. Rob is also one of the hosts for the national PBS television show America's Heartland. Rob's television home base is KVIE in Sacramento, the nation's 20th largest TV market, where both Rob on the Road and America's Heartland are produced. In its 7th season, Rob on the Road is one of KVIE's highest rated and most popular programs.

Rob has been on television for 20 years. He has worked in television markets across the country including Philadelphia, New York City, CT, NJ and SC. Before his move to California in 2008, Rob anchored the nightly news in the Philadelphia television market for WHYY where he was tapped by Delaware Today Magazine as Best TV News Anchor in 2007.

Rob is a 2014 and 2013 Emmy Nominee for Best Television Host and has received three California Telly Awards, the 2013 Sacramento Arts Reporter of the Year Award, numerous Society of Professional Journalism and Associated Press Awards and the National Gracie Allen Award for his years of entertainment reporting.

Rob has extensive television anchoring and reporting experience, including live coverage of the terrorists' attacks in Manhattan on September 11th, the plane crash that killed John F. Kennedy, Jr., and the Inauguration of President Bill Clinton. With more than a decade of entertainment reporting experience, Rob's national exclusive stories have aired many times on CNN.

Rob is a passionate advocate for California non-profits benefiting underserved communities. Rob's passion is reporting stories that help others by demonstrating the power of working together toward the greater good.